PT NOTES

3 Dot Theology on Evangelism (Part I)

An Article by Greg Stiers

I believe there are three dots—three theological truths—that hover out there when it comes to evangelism. And each of these dots is crucial for us to embrace as we seek to make evangelism a priority in our ministries. But the reality is that they don't seem to fully make sense.

Dot #1: It's God's Responsibility to Save.

Jonah 2:9 makes it clear that "salvation comes from the Lord." In other words, it takes an act of God to save us. We are so sinful that, in and of ourselves, we would never choose God. When Isaiah 64:6 says that our "righteous deeds are like filthy rags," it reinforces the truth that salvation has to come from the Lord. It's like there is a light switch in our souls that is turned off, and God, through His Holy Spirit, has to reach into our hearts and flip the switch.

This is why we pray to God to save the lost. We beg Him to enable them to believe and regenerate their depraved souls. As Jesus himself said, "No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him" (John 6:44).

Apart from God's intervention, there is no salvation. It's his responsibility to save.

Dot #2: It's Our Responsibility to Share.

Romans 10:14 puts the mission of evangelism directly in our hands. Paul writes, "How, then, can they call on the one they have not believed in? And how can they believe in the one of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them?" The exegetical point here is that if we don't tell them, they won't hear, and if they don't hear then they can't believe (how's that for a quadruple negative!).

This verse is tucked right in the middle of the broader context of Romans 9-11, which is Paul's grand treatise on God's sovereignty in salvation (aka "election"). But smack dab in the middle of this teaching Paul makes it clear that, although God is large and in charge when it comes to salvation, He chooses to use us as the vehicles of sharing His redemptive message.

And He answered him "Pursue: for thou shalt surely overtake them, and without fail recover all."

For those coming up early on Friday, remember to plan for your own lunch & dinner. Typically the fishermen have a fish fry, so bring some fries, onion rings & drinks to contribute. Session will start around 9:00 PM & a snack will follow. If you need to carpool ask around. Maps out on foyer table. (Don't accept OCD office in Parry Sound on your GPS ... you've gone too far)
